LATIN-AMERICA TALKS

NUCLEAR FREE ZONE

AGREEMENT EXPECTED
SOON

HOPES FOR AN EARLY AGREEMENT TO KEEP LATIN AMERICA FREE OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS WAS EXPRESSED LAST WEEK BY THE SECRETARY-GENERAL, U THANT, in a message to the Preparatory Commission for De-nuclearization of Latin America which met in Mexico City.

The success of the talks, he

U THANT: PRESENT
MEETING A CRUCIAL ONE

said, gave "solid ground for hoping that a treaty for the de-nuclearization of Latin America can be achieved and enter into force for the whole or for at least part of the area in the near future."

The Secretary-General said he was gratified to note the provision of the draft under discussion would establish close links between the agency to be created and several of the principal organs of the United Nations, and that the Interna-

FOLLOWING IN THEIR FATHERS' FOOTSTEPS

THERE ARE TWO COMBINATIONS OF FATHER-SON PARTNERSHIPS in B Coy, 7th Irish Infantry Group drawn from the Southern Command, Ireland. It would be interesting to discover can this record be equalled by any company-sub-unit in any of the other contingents. The picture which we publish in this issue was taken some time ago and since that C/S Pat. Neill was taken ill and has undergone an operation in Dhekelia General Military Hospital where he is a patient at present. We hear he is making a rapid recovery and would like to take this opportunity to wish him an early return to the line.

NON-NUCLEAR STATES TO CONFER

HARNESSING THE ATOM

A PREPARATORY GROUP MET AT UN HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK, LAST WEEK to pave the way for a general conference of non-nuclear states. The last General Assembly decided to convene the conference no later than July 1968 in order to consider such questions as:

How can the security of non-nuclear states best be assured?
How can non-nuclear powers co-operate among themselves to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons?
How can nuclear devices be used for exclusively peaceful purposes?

MEKONG BASIN PROJECT

ELECTRIC POWER AND IRRIGATION

$23 MILLION SCHEME

THE PROGRESS MADE IN THE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME FOR THE LOWER MEKONG BASIN came under review at a new meeting of the Co-ordinating Committee which opened in Vientiane, Laos, last week.

The session will be marked by a dedication ceremony for the $23 million electric power and irrigation project on Nam Ngum, one of the tributaries of the Mekong, situated about 45 miles to the north of Vientiane.

In extending his Government's welcome to the delegates, Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos said the Nam Ngum project would change the lives of thousands of families in the area and facilitate fruitful co-operation with his country's neighbours, especially Thailand.

UN Under-Secretary C.V. Narasimhan conveyed the Secretary-General's deep personal interest in the progress of the Committee's work. He pointed out that the development programme involved the co-operation not only of the Mekong River countries, but also 21 other countries on three continents. He emphasized that this co-operation had been sustained and even accelerated despite all kinds of political vicissitudes and even major military conflicts.

The Committee's work, Mr. Narasimhan declared, had contributed not only to economic and social progress, but also to the contentment of the peoples in the area and, thereby, to political stability.

FORSVARSMINISTER PÅ BESØG HOS DANCON

Den 2. februar aflagde den irske forsvarsminister, H.E. Michael Hilliard, ledsaget af den irske generalstabschef, generaløjtnant Sean Mac Eoin, officielt besøg ved HQ DANCON. Ministeren og generalen blev modtaget af kontingentchefen, oberstløjtnant J.J. Ladegaard-Mikkelsen og gik derefter strax op i O-rummet, hvor de blev orienteret om den øjeblikkelige situation i Nicosia West district. Gæsterne forlod derefter Ledra Palace, og ministeren inspicerede - som billedet viser - det til lejligheden af B-kompagniet stillede æreskommando. Videre gik turen til C-kompagniets kommandostation, hvorfra gæsterne efter en kort orientering af kompagnichefen, major O.P. Olling, begav sig ud på den del af "Den grønne linie", der ligger inden for Nicosias mure, og med dette sluttede besøget.

HOBBIES

er en god ting at have. I CHARLEY-kompagniet er det ved at blive en hel mani at bygge og flyve med modellfly. På billedet ses to af de ivrigste modellflyvere, tv. KS 662633 Viggo Sørensen fra SLFR med en færdigbygget model af Spitfire-typen og th. KS 617031 Ole Pedersen fra GHR.

KS Pedersen forulykkede forleden dag med sit modellfly nær ved kompagniets kommandostation, hvorved maskinen fik vingerne revet af og haleroret lettere beskadiget. Fly'et er lavvinget, bygget af balsa træ, og vingerne er beklædt med pergamentpapir. Motoren er en 0,15 HK glødehoved-motor, og den startes ved hjælp af strømmen fra et batteri. Brændstoffet, der anvendes, er en blanding af æter og acetone. Det er forøvrigt ikke overvældende dyrt at lege med modellfly, idet en motor koster ca. 4 ½ pund, 70g kroppen ca. 1 ½ pund.

De to konstabler er i øjeblikket i gang med at experimentere med et radiostyret fly, der kan dirigeres helt ud til en afstand af 10 km. Driver man sporten så vidt, er den naturligvis ikke så billig at udøve, som ovenfor nævnt, idet udrustningen hertil i Danmark koster ca. 1700 kr., men mindre kan jo også gøre det, uden at fornøjelsen herved går tabt.

BENZIN SKAL DER TIL

for at holde DANCON's køretøjer rullende, og det er ikke småting, der bruges. Pr. uge kører vi 1400 til 1500 gallons op, hvilket svarer til ca. 6.500 liter, så det er intet under, at vore raske folk i motorpuljen har travlt.

Tv. ses på billedet KS 567714 Karl Hansen, JTRR i Aalborg, i færd med at tanke en vogn, medens KS 678149 John Vangshold, flyvestation Værløse, tager sig af den mere "kontormæssige" side af sagen

NERVE CENTRE OF THE CONTINGENT

There is some well-deserved publicity due to the Operations Staff of Group Hq. These hard working back-room boys maintain a round-the-clock service at Hq in Xeros. On such peace-keeping operations as this they are the nerve centre of the contingent and are very often forgotten by the camera which roams forever where the action is. See pictures this page.

There has been somewhat of a lull in sporting activities due in part to recent preoccupations, to bad weather and leave periods. There were however two important events last week. On Wednesday the Irish officers of HQ UNFICYP played the Group Hq officers at volley ball at Xeros. The lower qualifying age limit for these teams was thirty-five so that it was understandable that the tempo of the play was somewhat "Largo" (slow and dignified). Nevertheless skill was not altogether absent and the playing of pipe music by the Group band, which was present, helped to stir the battle urge of the veterans. We regret to report that the fancied UNFICYP Hq team was beaten Three games to one. A dialogue is at present in progress between the rival team chairmen Capt O Connell and Bunyan to fix the conditions of the return game. It is expected that interim training sessions will reduce paunches, eliminate groans and grunts, and considerably improve the standard of skills. The second event in a more serious vein was the big challenge soccer game between the Group officers and the officers of the local Greek National Guard unit played at Xeros last Thursday. A beautiful trophy and set of medals were won by the Group Officers, the final score being three goals to one. Capt Sheridan, Lieut Quirke and Lieut Archbold were the Group scorers. A return game in this case has been agreed to and will be eagerly awaited as the skill and enthusiasm displayed were of a high order and call for a repeat performance. The date and venue will shortly be announced.

TRANSPORT CHIEF VISITS UNFICYP

RECENTLY THE INSPECTOR OF THE ROYAL CORPS OF TRANSPORT, Brigadier E. W. T. Darlow, OBE, was in Cyprus during a series of routine visits to RCT Units throughout the world.

Whilst in the island he took the opportunity to "look in" on 1 Squadron RCT. For this visit he was accompanied by Lt. Colonel E. J. Younghusband, RCT, who is CRCT Cyprus.

INITIAL BRIEFING

RECCE PARTY ARRIVES

ROTATION IN APRIL

HARBINGERS OF SPRING-TIME AND THE ROTATION OF THE CANADIAN CONTINGENT were the reconnaissance party of the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada from Calgary, Alberta, and the incoming Officer Commanding the Royal Canadian Dragoon recce squadron.

The contingents rotate in April and the recce party spent the week of Jan. 30 — Feb. 6 going over the ground in detail with members of the present contingent, the 1st Battalion, The Royal Canadian Regiment, and the recce squadron of Calgary's Fort Garry Horse.

The Queen's Own Rifles have been "doing their homework" for the Cyprus assignment well in advance. Their commanding officer, Lt.-Col. N.A. Robinson was DAA & QMG in Canadian contingent headquarters when the 1st battalion of the regiment was here April—September, 1965.

The incoming battalion is young, the average age being 24½ and the average age of the riflemen 18½. Briefings were underway in their home base at Calgary late last year based on material sent then by 1 RCR here.

Lt.-Col. Robinson has written: "We have found an area in the Sheep Creek part of the Rockies which resembles the Kyrenia Range and did a week's UN exercise up there. The Forest Rangers were most intrigued by the Greek and Turkish flags flying on the peaks in the Bow River Forest Reserve and our

72 Sqn ROTATION

THE FIRST ROTATION OF 72 SQUADRON (DET) RAF is now in progress. Flt Lt Peter Foid and his staff are leaving almost immediately, and are succeeded by Flt Lt Ted Roberts and his men. The new crews will be in Cyprus for approximately six weeks.

Unpacking their equipment are new arrivals Flt Sgt Bill Butt (left), Flt Sgt Jim Lord (supervising), and Sgt Ken Torking-on.

UN MEDAL PRESENTATION

Twenty-three Royal Canadian Corps of Signals personnel manning rear links for all contingents of UNFICYP had a UN medals parade at Headquarters with Lt.-Col. Robert Wythe, Chief Signals Officer, making the presentation. Left to right are Capt. George Lackonick, who has 36 Canadian signalmen on the island; Cpl. Fred Marryat, Lt.-Col. Wythe, and Sig. R.G. Carrigan.

Cypriot 'women' (played by the young soldiers) had to be seen to be believed! We're driving on the left side of the road in the training area . . .

Apparently Canadian Forces Base authorities in Calgary put a stop to their installing Cypriot road signs all over Currie Barracks, feeling realism was being carried too far.

The new battalion is attempting to match the 1 RCR organization as much as possible to avoid disruptions in the continuity of the Canadian contingent presence here, going so far as to bring with them a small bugle band with instruments and a five-man "beat" group with a repertoire of 65 songs and $5,000 worth of electronic ins-

The 107th regimental birthday falls on Apr. 26, 1967, plans for observances of which will begin when the QOR of C arrives in April. Some activities are also planned for Calgary Day on August 1.

Members of the recce party included the battalion second in command, Major Bill S. Wilson; Major Ted E. Ball, Major Jim H. Allen and Lt. Ron P. Kyswaty. The OC of the recce squadron of the dragoons who was here with the Fort Garry Horse for first hand insight into their operations was Major Kevin G. Troughton. The Dragoons will be coming with the April rotation from Canadian Forces Base Gagetown, New Brunswick.

LIFE HAS PRIORITY

PART V

OVERTAKING

THERE ARE FEW DRIVERS WHO HAVE NOT, AT ONE TIME OR ANOTHER, MOVED OVER IN THE ROAD TO OVERTAKE A VEHICLE AND THEN WONDERED IF THEY WOULD GET AROUND IN TIME. However expert a driver may be, he is apt to fall into certain habits of driving and it is therefore essential to be always careful about passing vehicles, especially when another vehicle is approaching from the opposite direction.

It may be helpful to illustrate the problem: To pass a vehicle that is travelling, let us say, at 35 miles an hour, is similar to passing a stationary line of vehicles hundreds of feet long, the distance depending on the speed in passing. Keeping this picture in mind may save some embarrassing moments, if not worse.

If a mistaken estimate is made and an overtaking vehicle is on the right side of the road with another vehicle approaching, the overtaking vehicle should brake and drop behind again.

When overtaking, besides checking for vehicles approaching from the front, be just as sure to check that vehicles behind are not pulling out to pass also.

Then there are the standard rules: Avoid overtaking when approaching a hill or a blind curve — we cannot see what is coming. Avoid overtaking when approaching a cross-roads, a corner, a pedestrian crossing, an intersection or where there is a no-passing zone. Be careful about overtaking slow-moving vehicles too rapidly — they may be preparing to turn.

And, finally, never speed up when another vehicle attempts to pass. It is not only discourteous, it is highly dangerous. The best procedure is to slow down a little and let the other vehicle get around quietly.

SAFETY FIRST!

The Finnish Contingent is issuing to its men small plastic reflectors meant to be carried on the shoulder. The reflector responds to the headlights of an oncoming vehicle long before the driver would otherwise spot the pedestrian, and gives a greater margin of safety by allowing the driver time to move toward the center of the road to give way.

The device is simple and cheap, and convenient to carry, and various tests conducted in Finland as well as in other countries have proved that it considerably reduces the danger of walking in the dark on narrow roads. It should prove particularly valuable here in Cyprus, where streets tend to be very dimly lit and where the dark paving of the main roads, when wet, absorbs vehicle headlights and sharply reduces visibility.

The picture (left) illustrates how the small piece of plastic, carried on the shoulder, gleams brightly and is clearly visible against the grey of a Finnish uniform.

Heijastin hohtaa kirkkaasti varoittaen autoilijaa jalankulkijasta, joka harmaassa univormussa muuten on pimeässä vaikea havaita ja sen vuoksi aina vaarassa tulla yliajetuksi. Kuva näyttää, että vastaantulijan auton häikäisevä valokaa ei himmennä heijastimen kirkkautta.

HEIJASTIMIA JAETAAN JALKAMIESTEN TURVAKSI

JOKAINEN, JOKA JOUTUU AJAMAAN AUTOA NIKOSIAN heikosti tai ei laisinkaan valaistuilla kaduilla ja saaren teillä, joiden tumma asfaltti varsinkin märkänä imee ajovalot melkein olemattomiin, tietää, kuinka vaikeata on varoa tien reunaa käveleviä tummiin pukeutuneita jalankulkijoita. Vastaantulvien paikallisten autoilijoiden tapa ajaa aivan keskiviivaa ei kapealla tiellä muutenkaan jätä paljon pelivaraa väistää jalankulkijoita, mutta todella vaaralliseksi käy tilanne silloin, kun kuljettajalla on vain sekunnin murto-osa aikaa havaita tien reunaa taivaltava jalkamies.

Jalkaisin kulkevien pataljoonalaisten turvallisuuden lisäämiseksi on nyt vihdoinkin saatu jakoon heijastimet, jotka olkapäähän kiinnitettynä hohtavat kirkkaasti jo kauan ennen kuin autoilija muuten kykenisi kävelijää havaitsemaan. Heijastin on vain pieni muovilevyn palanen, mutta se kulkee mukana vaivattomasti ja sen hyödyllisyys on niin Suomessa kuin ulkomailla suoritetuissa kokeissa tullut moneen kertaan todistetuksi.

Ei ole luultavaa, että aivan pian saamme paikallisen väestön kääntetyksi heijastimien innokkaiksi käyttäjiksi, mutta hyvillä ideoilla on taipumusta tarttua, ja voihan hyvinkin olla, että meikäläisten olkapäillä kiiltävät laput saavat ainakin jotkut havaitsemaan, miten vaivattomasti tällä tavoin voidaan vähentää onnettomuuden vaaraa. Edellytyksenä tietysti on, että itse todella käytämme heijastimia, emmekä vain jätä niitä laatikon pohjalle sen muun rojun joukkoon, jota ei paljon pengota ennen rotaatiota. Sillä tavoin sitä paitsi teemme kulkumme turvallisemmaksi sitä odotellessa, että muutkin huomaavat ajatuksen hyväksi.

RACIAL SEGREGATION IN SOUTH AFRICA

INTERNATIONAL INVESTIGATION URGED

THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON APARTHEID SAID TODAY THAT SOUTH AFRICA seemed to be wreaking increasing vengeance on opponents of her racial segregation policies and urged an international investigation to help the lot of prisoners held on racial charges.

In a letter to Secretary-General U Thant, the Committee recalled that in 1964 and 1965 it had suggested an international commission be set up to investigate accusations of torture and ill-treatment of prisoners in South Africa.

It remarked that this move was not pressed in the Assembly in the hope that international opinion might bring the South African Government to improve prison conditions.

However, the Committee declared, evidence continued to be received of ill-treatment of not only anti-apartheid leaders but also thousands of persons jailed for infringing apartheid laws.

An enquiry, called for by the 11-nation Committee, would be initiated by the UN Commission on Human Rights.

Also, today, the apartheid Committee urged that the forthcoming Anti-Discrimination Day be observed in the widest and most effective way possible. The last Assembly proclaimed 21 March as "International Day for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination". The Committee noted that this date was chosen to commemorate the massacre seven years ago in Sharpeville, South Africa, of demonstrators against apartheid; 68 persons were killed and nearly 200 wounded.

The Committee said the Sharpeville massacre was a grim reminder of the profound injustice of apartheid — and of the fact that the people who lived under it could not free themselves without the support of international opinion and action.

The Committee suggested that 21 March be marked by declarations of support of UN efforts to end apartheid and foster a non-racial society in South Africa, and contributions to UN and other funds designed to help apartheid victims as well as to organizations fighting apartheid.

The Committee's proposals were set forth in a letter to UN members and non-governmental organizations.

In a third decision today, the Committee expressed its concern about the plans of certain US banks to extend or renew loans to South Africa, and asked the Chairman to seek US action to prevent this. The issue was brought up by Guinea, which said that a US consortium, including the Chase Manhattan and First National City, was about to grant a 40 million dollar line of credit to South Africa and that this would nourish her arms build-up.

Last Autumn the Assembly asked all states to discourage bank loans to South Africa and to comply with the Security Council decisions requesting a full arms embargo.

Besides the move relating to US banks, the Committee asked the UN Secretariat to report on what financial aid South Africa was receiving from other countries in general.

The members of the Committee are Algeria, Costa Rica, Ghana, Guinea, Haiti, Hungary, Malaysia, Nepal, Nigeria, the Philippines, and Somalia.

NUCLEAR-FREE ZONE...

tional Atomic Energy Agency would have an important role in safeguarding its operation.

U Thant said the present meeting was a crucial one, coming at a time when the nations of the world appeared to be moving closer toward the achievement of a treaty on non-proliferation of nuclear weapons. He noted that the Antarctic Treaty of 1959 provided for the de-nuclearization of that part of the world, and that the new treaty signed in London, Moscow and Washington the previous week would prohibit the placing of nuclear weapons in outer space and the celestial bodies.

The treaty for the de-nuclearization of Latin America, he said, would formally set up the first nuclear-free zone for an inhabited portion of the globe.

Such a treaty, said the Secretary-General, would be of benefit to the peoples of Latin America because it would keep the horrors of any nuclear war away and permit human and material resources to be devoted to advancement rather than wasted in a nuclear arms race.

And, on a broader scale, he said, it could help pioneer the way for the de-nuclearization of other areas of the world, to reduce the problem of nuclear proliferation, and to stimulate renewed interest in other disarmament measures within Latin America and the world at large.

ALLEGED USE OF POISON GAS IN YEMEN

SAUDI ARABIA COMPLAINS OF AIR STRIKES

AMBASSADOR JAMIL BAROODY OF SAUDI ARABIA CALLED ON UN SECRETARY-GENERAL U THANT on 30 January to complain of air strikes on two Saudi Arabian towns and the alleged use of poison gas in Yemen.

He asked U Thant to take whatever steps he might consider necessary to put an end to such acts.

At the Secretary-General's request, Ambassador Mohamed Awad El Kony of the United Arab Republic met with him on Wednesday, 1 February, to discuss the matter.

In answer to subsequent queries by newsmen, a UN spokesman said the UAR had not asked for a UN investigation, but that the Secretary-General had seen a press release in which the UAR Minister for National Guidance expressed the readiness of his Government to accept a fact-finding mission.

U. S. CONTRIBUTION TO UNICEF

THE US AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED NATIONS, ARTHUR GOLDBERG, LAST WEEK PRESENTED A CHEQUE FOR ONE MILLION DOLLARS to Henry Labouisse, Executive Director of the UN Children's Fund.

The special gift, which is in addition to the 21 million dollars regularly pledged by the US each year, was authorized by the US Congress and President to commemorate UNICEF's 20th anniversary in 1966 and its receipt of the Nobel Prize in 1965.

Describing the Children's Fund as "one of the most successful of all United Nations ventures," Ambassador Goldberg said it had been instrumental in "meeting a need which has no measure and knows no politics — the need of the world's children for food, shelter, and preparation to become useful citizens."

ROLE OF THE CHURCH IN LATIN - AMERICA COUNCIL OF 90 BISHOPS

THE UN SECRETARY-GENERAL, U THANT, LAST WEEK RECEIVED A DELEGATION OF THREE BISHOPS who presided over a Council of Roman Catholic bishops of Latin America, which met in Mar Del Plata, Argentina, last October, to discuss "the role of the Church in the socio-economic development and integration of Latin America."

U Thant was presented with a document summarizing the conclusions proposed by the 90 bishops at the Council.

The document deals with such problems as the need for reforms in existing land and social structures and fundamental education.

It stresses everyone's rights in these areas and urges all responsible persons to take effective action to secure them.
